

The Founders of Nuclear Medicine

Saul Hertz, M.D. First tracer use of radioiodine in studying thyroid physiology (1937); first administration of the "atomic cocktail" (iodine-131) for thyroid therapy (1941).

Mallinckrodt salutes one of the scientists whose pioneering work played an important part in the foundation of Nuclear Medicine.

